G. U. P. UP IN AIR OVER A CANDIDATE TO OPPOSE WILSON

Hedges Says Root's Boom Is Growing and Progressives Line Up for Gen. Wood.

Despite over-Sunday conferences of political leaders in various cities, the Republican party is still without a definite plan or a favorite canditate for the Chicago National Convention. 'We are ballooning," was the co.nment of a shrewd observer. "Up in the air and still going up." There were, however, three distinct drifts observable in the political current and close attention is being given to find just how much strength they will develop.

One-The boom for Elihu Root is taking on more substantial substance and is the only one making fresh progress just at this time.

Two-Gen, Leonard Wood is being more seriously considered as a possible compromise candidate because of the conceded certainty that he is the residuary legates of Col. Roosevett's vellow jacket and peacock feather.

Job E. Hedges returned to-day from Chicago, where he launched the Root boom, with the following news:

"No one can pick the choice of the Convention yet. No one candidate will have so large a vote on the first ballot as to put him in a commanding lead. But the candidacy of Root is gathering on more form and well grounded strength during the past week than any of the others.

Shakespeare's Seven Ages Are Modernized By Pastor Who Thinks Love Can Be Eternal BIG ARMY PLANS

Romeo and Juliet Would Probably Have Celebrated Their Golden Wedding Very Happily, If They Had Lived, Says the Rev. Frederick Winslow Adams, Who Believes in Poetic Love.

By Nixola Greeley-Smith.

The Rev. Frederick Winslow Adams preached his evening sermon yeserday on "The Seven Ages of Man," described in Shakespeare's comedy "As You Like It."

Do you recall these seven ages as they are classified by Jacques, the gentle cynic of the Forest of Arden? All the world's a stage,

And all the men and women merely players; They have their exits and their entrances; And one man in his time plays many parts, His acts being seven ages.

Dr. Adams told me that Jacques's description of the seven ages is the interpretation of a cynic. He prefers to divide the life of man into seven phases, showing the progress or decadence of the religious ideal in him. Here are the two classifications side by side.

Force nightfull the case of Licut. obert Fay, Walter Scholz and Paul bacche, the three Germans charged with conspiracy to disable shops bearing ammunition to the allies, will be in he hands of the jury.

The motion to dismiss the indict RIVERSIDE'S BEAUTIES sent against the trio and direct a erdict of acquittal was made to ludge Howe in his chambors in the United States District Court this norning and was denied. Henry N. tager, counsel for Fay then began summing up for the three defendants cracking fire in its welcoming lobby, it is known familiary as "the claurch with the open fireplace and the open door."

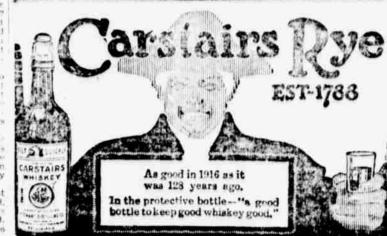

"Infancy depends on others for everything. It is absolute bondage. Or. Adams said. "We cannot make known our own wants even, but depend for everything upon our fathers, and mothers. Bondage is followed by rectage, the period of childhood when, by good or evil teaching and example, our lives make strong roots which will enable us to stand the regular winds and the droughts of later years, or are so weakened that our ideals wither gradually and die.
